

The Stewart Lain Memorial Fund

Stewart Lain was said to have been, “A handsome sailor from Indiana on shore leave,” by his wife, Daisy. The two high school sweethearts met at the local roller skating rink and after a long correspondence, were married in Groton, IN on September 26, 1948. The couple then settled in Hobart, IN and had three children named Sheryl, Debra, and Scott. Later in their lives, Daisy and Stewart purchased a summer home on Bass Lake. The family also spent many vacations back in Groton, enjoying Ocean Beach, watching the subs and visiting the grinder shop by Electric Boat. They also enjoyed the Staten Island Ferry.

Stew and Daisy were reunited on June 28, 2015. She is interred by his side at Round Lake Cemetery in North Judson, Ind., along with her cherished box of rose petals and the note from her sailor dated April 1948.
